The one dated August 5th says in German, "All's Well. Don't Worry." The one of August 14th, "All's Well." The shortness of these postals is probably because of the strict censorship of that country.

Word was received September 3 that Miss Bicknell would sail from Rotterdam and arrive in Montreal on September 10.

Sails for War-Stricken Europe

Dr. Bial F. Bradbury will leave New York on the "Red Cross" which formerly belonged to the Hamburg-American fleet next Saturday for Red Cross hospital work in Europe. He received an appointment as director of one of the ten units in the American Red Cross some days ago and Tuesday afternoon was ordered to be ready to sail on the above boat. To what port the vessel is going he does not know or at least did not tell.

We understand the American Red Cross is to send ten hospital units to the Continent. Each unit to be composed of one director and 112 trained nurses and Dr. Bradbury is Medical Director of one of these units and sails on the first vessel going from this country.

There were over 200 applications for these ten positions and Lieut. Col. Bradbury, Chief Surgeon of the National Guard of Maine, is to be congratulated on receiving this appointment. No doubt his service and experience during the Spanish-American war admirably fits him for this position.

Birthday Party.

At the home of Mrs. Virgilyn Murdock, 148 Main street, on Thursday evening was observed the birthdays of four of the members of the Veranda Club.

Those who gave the party were Mrs. Virgilyn Murdock, Clara Jordan, Mrs. Jennie Richardson and Mrs. Vera Kilgore.

At an early hour a nice party of club members and invited friends had assembled, at 7:30 p. m. all marched to the dining room where all united in the Lord's prayer.

The merry party was seated at the table and a social hour followed. A special table was set for the little folks which was pleasing to them.

The tables looked very inviting, and all tried to do justice to the fine menu prepared by the four ladies, which consisted of mashed potatoes, green peas and string-beans with cream, cucumbers, pickles, hot rolls, doughnuts, tarts, assorted cake, various kinds of fancy pies and puddings, too numerous to mention, fruit and delicious coffee with cream.

The last course was the birthday cake, given by Mrs. Cordelia McKay and was beautifully decorated, bearing the words "Veranda Club." Each one was presented with a square of the cake.

At the conclusion of the meal all returned to the living room where the remainder of the evening was passed socially. Clara Jordan entertained the party with selections on the phonograph, which was very enjoyable.

The President, Mrs. Jennie L. Spring presented Mrs. Virgilyn Murdock with a white linen tablecloth, Clara Jordan with a cream color dress pattern, Mrs. Jennie Richardson with a set of silver fruit knives and Mrs. Vera Kilgore a blue serge skirt pattern. Clara Jordan was also presented with a box of chocolates from Mrs. Myrtle Morgan.

Each one was also remembered with birthday cards from the club and friends. Those present by invitation were Mrs. Myrtle Morgan, Mrs. Hattie Morse and Mrs. Adelaide Pledge. The time for departure came at a late hour, all wishing those present many happy returns of the day.

After dinner the time was spent in playing various games, picking berries, and doing many other things that were new to mention, and anyone living on or near the hill can testify that not one in the party has any form of lung trouble.

A Freak of Nature.

Nature took a freak one day last week when one of H. M. Goodwin's Rhode Island hens laid an egg within an egg. The egg was enormous to look at and no wonder, for within the shell was a perfectly formed egg and besides this, double yoked eggs are commonly met but never have I heard of an egg with a shell being inside of another. Doubtless some will not believe this but we invite the incredulous ones to come to the farm and have it proven to them.

Boytown-Stephens.

The marriage of Janet Christine Stephens and Carl Wellington Boynton took place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ashbury Stephens, Wednesday, at high noon.

The ceremony was performed in the reception hall which was profusely decorated with evergreen and flowers. Just before the ceremony, Mrs. C. A. Stephens, Minnie Sealay, who became the bride of Dr. C. A. Stephens in December, 1912, appeared upon the first landing of the stately stairway and sang "My Love Has Come to Me." Mrs. Agnes L. South Paris accompanied her at the piano.

Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Harry Fairfield of Kennebunk, a friend of the bridegroom, to the strains of which the bridal party descended the stairway and grouped for the ceremony. Only immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was handsomely gowned in a white travelling suit of white taffeta and serge with half of white with yellow roses and cornflowers. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Arthur Hastings Delano (Dr. Edna Stephens) of Dorchester, Mass., as matron of honor.

Mrs. Delano was gowned in blue silk and lace. She carried a bouquet of red sweet peas. Arthur Delano was best man. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. C. A. Stephens, Rev. A. T. McWhorter, pastor of the Congregational church at South Paris, officiated.

Mrs. Scalar Stephens softly sang the old time ballad, "Aurora Lee, Aurora Lee, Take the Golden Ring," while the ceremony of placing the respective rings took place. Then, Mrs. Scalar Stephens by special request, of the bride, sang "Annie Laurie." Words fail to express the appreciation felt by all as this favorite ballad was so beautifully sung.

A reception followed the marriage ceremony after which a buffet lunch was served in the dining room, which was effectively decorated in yellow and white, with autumnal shades.

Mrs. Joseph Knowler of Dorchester, Mass., served bouillon. Mrs. Arthur H. Delano of Dorchester, Mass., and Augusta H. French, a cousin of the bride, served tea and salad. Mrs. Boynton, the bride, is the daughter of Dr. C. A. NORWAY PROOF

Should Convince Every Norway Reader.

The frank statement of a neighbor, telling the merits of a remedy.

Bids you pause and believe. The same endorsement.

By some stranger far away. Commands no belief at all.

Here's a Norway case. A Norway citizen testifies.

Read and be convinced. "Sometimes I had a dull pain through the small of my back, together with a tired feeling," says C. E. Bradford, proprietor laundry, Maine St., Norway. "I couldn't rest well. When a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Stone's Drug Store.

After I used two boxes, the pains left and there was great improvement in every way. I have had no trouble since."

Brief Sketches of Local Business Enterprises.

Tucker Harness Store. This firm was established in 1801 by Benjamin Tucker, great-grandfather of James FAVOR, the present proprietor.

The next proprietor of the store was the present owner's grandfather and he, next, Cyrus S. Tucker, whose heirs he bought out in 1900, his uncle. This makes the firm one of the oldest in Norway.

James FAVOR was born in Cambridge, April 11, 1876. His parents moved to Norway when he was but two years old. He began learning the harness maker's trade when he was but 15 years old. He was educated in the Norway schools and graduated from the high school in the class of '94.

Besides the harness shop a large line of trunks, robes and blankets are carried.

Mr. FAVOR married Annie E. Hayes of Oxford. They have three children, two boys and one girl.

Mr. FAVOR belongs to the various Masonic orders. In politics he is a Republican and attends the Universalist church.

Noyes Drug Store. The institution bearing the above name calls to mind the Norway of fifty years ago, when Amos Oscar Noyes the owner conducted a successful business in the same location.

Frank Kimball the present owner and occupant was born in Kennebunk, where he attended high school and later went to Bowdoin college, graduating in the class of '79.

Mr. Kimball has always taken a great interest in music and began his studies at an early age.

He started in this present business as a drug clerk in Mechanic Falls in 1879, after two years he moved to Iowa where he stayed two years in Sioux City and one year in Conway.

Mr. Kimball came to Norway in '83, and was engaged in the drug business in Norway for ten years.

In '93 he went to Woodville, N. H., where he bought a store but finding Norway the best place returned in '97 and has since then remained here.

The present clerks are Lester V. Ashton who came here from Auburn and Paul Hosmer of Norway.

Mr. Kimball married Ida M. Gerry of Mechanic Falls. They have two children, Winfield A. who is teaching in Massachusetts and Roland G. who has been attending the University of Maine.

Mr. Kimball belongs to the Masonic orders and the Odd Fellows.

ROXBURY. Maude Hylan of Lynn, Mass., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Reed.

Mrs. W. L. Thome and daughter, Hazel of Rumford were the guests of L. A. Thomas and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gray of Fitchburg, Mass., have been spending their honeymoon in town.

R. W. Pettigill, wife and son, George of Cambridge have been visiting John Reed and family for two weeks.

Carl White and wife have been entertaining his sisters and friends from Rhode Island.

Albert Lord from Portland has been visiting his cousin, Charles Mathews.

Cornish Fair. The weather for the Fair season opened up very auspiciously, and Cornish and vicinity was duly thankful. The slight shower Thursday noon simply laid the dust, and did not in the least interfere with the race program, two races in straight heats.

In the cattle department, fancy stock was abundant, and good work oxen and dairy stock aroused admiration from those who appreciate this important phase of farm activities.

Wednesday was the banner day for attendance, and all went home happy, for the attractions had been of the very best and sufficiently ample to keep every one interested. Too interested, in fact, for there were some complaints of pickpockets getting in their fancy work on Wednesday.

Probably Frank Fox, whose horses cleared $480 over the entrance fees during the three days of the Fair, is about the best satisfied man in that vicinity.

Mary Jane Everett.

Mrs. Everett, whose maiden name was Mary J. Gammon, passed away after about a month's illness at her home in Oxford, the 8th day of August, 1914, aged 66 years and 22 days.

She leaves a husband and two sons, the older son now living in Portland. Four of her brothers and a sister are now living. All who knew her recognized her devotion to the interests of her family. She was one worthy of the kindest memories of her many friends.

Every effort will be made by the United States government to reopen the way for importation of dyes and chemicals, the lack of which threatens to throw a million American textile workers out of their jobs. Would it not be a good thing for some smart American to go into that business right at home—now is a chance for a practical display of the American brains.

Recollection of Early Settlers Of Greenwood.

By Prof. A. E. Verrill of Yale University.

Since the publication of the two earlier parts of these papers on Greenwood, I have been urged by many to give more particulars as to the characteristics and modes of life of the people, and also to give details, if known, concerning their descendants. In this, and in the later parts, I have tried to do this, but after the lapse of so many years, it is not very easy to recall the personal appearance, nor the character of many that I knew, as a small boy, unless they subsequently came to my father's store to trade, at Norway, which they did.

In tracing the subsequent histories of many of the families, I have been glad to be able to have the assistance of others, especially of Gilman Cordwell, who resided in Greenwood until recently, and is five years older than I am, and remembers well the old Greenwood families; and Winfield Cordwell, about my age, who is familiar with the histories of many families, later than my residence here.

As to the old anecdotes of many of the farmers, many were too pointed to be pleasant, even to their descendants, and some say the older story at the time, would have little point to any one who did not know them. Many that were told are better forgotten. Those that I relate will, I trust, be offensive to no one.

The father of Isaac Patch was Timothy Patch, said to have come from a Kentucky family. He lived early on the first Thos. W. Furlong farm, under the south side of Patch Mountain, in the old log house there.

I have been told that several parties, in past years, have dug for gold, supposed to have been buried on his farm by Isaac Patch, using "driving rods," etc. Personally I believe he wasted most of his property before he died, and he had none to bury.

The farm next southward from the Isaac Patch farm, on the old stage road, was that of Rev. Wm. Yates. He was one of the earliest settlers of Greenwood, some say the first. He settled in 1802, or earlier. His farmhouse, which is now gone, was on the west side of the road. He had previously lived in Norway, on the farm afterwards occupied by Thomas Witt, where he was taxed in 1796. I remember him as a sturdy, gray-haired, old man, with a very loud and sonorous voice, which he heard about a mile away, when he was talking to his oxen in the spring ploughing season. He, with Elder Whittle in recounting, at the Methodist church, his sins, real or imaginary, and telling his experiences before conversion, and also in the loudness and energy of his "experiences." He married Patsie Morgan. They had seven sons and four daughters. The sons were Moses; Sylvester, who married Harriet Verill, daughter of Cyrus; William; Stephen; Samuel; Jonathan; James. The daughters were Polly, who married Peter Verrill, (later resident of Calais, Me.) and had one son, named Moses; Martha, married Jonathan Leavitt and settled in Lovell; Hannah, married John Brown and settled in Oxford; Sarah, married Francis Cordwell, previously mentioned.

Moses, married Martha Whittle, daughter of Rev. Edward Whittle, previously mentioned. His son Milwood was engaged in the newspaper business, on the Lewiston Journal, etc. Another son, Gilbert, married Laura, daughter of Jacob Emmons.

Sylvester, married three times, his second wife was nearly blind, owing to cataract in both eyes, which were unsuccessfully operated upon when young. She was a bright and handsome girl in other respects. She had no children. His third wife was a Lombard, and by her had several children. He settled on the Herick Mountain, on the farm next above that of Dennis Herick.

Jonathan, married Rosamond Morgan. He remained on the farm and took care of his father later in life.

James, married Amy Cole, sister of Luther Cole. One of his sons is Dr. Octavian K. Yates of West Paris. A complete genealogy of the Yates family, including those in Greenwood, has been published in book form. Therefore I have given less of it, in this place, than I otherwise might.

Rev. William Yates was a very earnest Methodist, which was the dominant religious sect in that region. At that time they took their religious doctrines very seriously and engaged in long and hot ordination; infant damnation; the nature of hell-fire; a personal devil; the necessity of baptism by immersion, etc. No one of them doubted that the creation of man begun with Adam, about 6000 years ago; nor that Eve sprouted out of one of his ribs, like a graft, perhaps. A literal burning hell, miraculously supplied with sufficient brimstone to last through eternity, was seldom questioned, and often preached. In fact, much of the preaching was devoted to picturing eternal damnation and the horrible tortures of sinners, rivalling the worst of those in Dante's Inferno.

The following two extracts from prayers of one of those old-fashioned preachers, but not Elder Yates, are given merely as examples of the fervid language then in use. Many much hotter prayers were made:

"Oh Lord: Let every sinner here today see himself hair-strung and breath-shaken over the very depths of hell."
"Oh Lord: Rim-rack and center-shake Satan's Kingdom."

The following is an abstract from a "Prayer for the President" delivered by one of these old-fashioned country clergymen, when General Andrew Jackson came into office, for every minister was expected to pray for the president in those days. It has been preserved in the family of a lady who heard it, but it has never been printed, so far as I know. It seems very suitable, just now, for the people of Germany, Austria, and Mexico.

"Oh Lord forbid that we should have bloody men to rule over us, and for such men, we pray thee, give them short lives and happy deaths and take them home to glory, and give us no more such men to rule over us."

Methodists, in those early years, considered the wearing of bright ribbons, beads, rings, or any kinds of finery very sinful. I used to hear of one pious woman who, in telling in church her "experiences," she said that she found that wearing her ribbons, beads, embroidery, etc., was "dragging her right down to hell," and so she gave them to her sister. Dancing and playing cards were believed to be even more sinful, and much worse than getting drunk.

HUDSON Six-40

New Model $1550 f.o.b. Detroit

A NEW APEX IN FINE ENGINEERING

The HUDSON Six-40 for 1915 reveals many new standards for high grade cars.

There are new beauties, new comforts and conveniences. There are many attractions found in no other car.

Last season's model seemed to mark the apex in refinement. But the new-season model brings out thirty-one improvements. The HUDSON engineers headed by Howard E. Coffin—have spent a year on final touches, and the results of their work will delight you.

And Now a New Price

But the greater surprise is the new-year price, $1550, f. o. b. Detroit. That's $200 less than last year—due to a trebled output. Now this light-weight Six—the finest HUDSON production—sets a record price for quality cars, either Fours or Sixes.

You will see here the finest example of the modern type of car—light, economical, impressive. Every detail shows infinite pains. There are two extra tonneau seats. There is every good new idea in equipment.

The greatest engineering corps in this industry have now spent four years on this car. Come and see the finished product. It will be a revelation to you in many different ways.

A Simple Statement of Facts.

If we were to put a two-line item in the paper, set up in our smallest sized type, which stated that a certain business man charged more for his goods or kept an inferior quality than his competitors, the man would enter our office before Bub Cumings had got the floors half swept and demand satisfaction and would probably claim that two-thirds of the people within a radius of 20 miles have already read the item and that great damage was done him.

But if we were to ask that man for an advertisement of his wares, he would say: "No, I don't believe in advertising; no one reads the papers."
